

Third Grade News

FROM: MRS. SCOTT

DECEMBER 1, 2023

Take a look at next week!

Reading: Third grade will be working on creating their own book based on the books of Laura Numberoff entitled If You Give a Mouse a Cookie. Each student will be the author as well as the illustrator of their own created masterpiece book!

Math: Students will be doing a daily fact fluency check over multiplication and division facts using Moby Max online. We will delve into the next unit to learn about place value and expanded notation of numbers. This will include working on using strategies of math to add and subtract large numbers mentally.

Science: We will get into Unit 3 which is about environments and survival. We will look at various ways in which organisms survive within an environment and look at the adventures of earthworms underground.

Social Studies: In class we will be working more with our economy lapbook. We will add information about goods and services, producers and consumers, and scarcity.

English: Our class will be working on our literature set book, Jake Drake, Know-It-All. We will work on using the text of the story to determine and infer upcoming events as well as discuss synonyms of vocabulary words within the next few chapters.

*For the month of December, book reports will be half AR points only. These will be due on December 18th.
