Take a Look at Next Week...

Reading: We will finish our author study of Kevin Henkes and then begin the next story, Technology Wins the Game. The students will be researching famous athletes who have continued to compete despite having a disability and learning about what type of technology allows them to continue their passion.

Math: Unit 4 will continue as we learn about equivalent fractions.

Science: (see side note for information about a new series we will begin next week). We will also continue Unit 3 by observing fossils and using them to learn about animal survival traits.

Social Studies: This week we will be working on an interactive notebook to learn about Missouri government and the roles and responsibilities of those elected to positions within our state government.

English: We will conclude our friendly letters and get them sent out! We will learn how to address an envelope and where to place a stamp and how much it costs to send a letter!

AR points earned up through the 15th will be sent home. Your child will know what they have left for the rest of the month in order to reach their goal.

From Mrs. Scott
January 12, 2024

We will start a 9 week program for Ag-Education in which we have an instructor coming every Tuesday to our classroom to teach about where the food we eat starts and the stages that it goes through before it makes it to our table.

Dates to Remember...

January 15: No school; Martin Luther King, Jr. Day.

January 17: Book club after school

January 22: Bookmobile at ACES.

January 31: AR points are due!!
