

3rd Grade Newsletter

Happy New Year! From Mrs. Scott

January 5, 2024

New Year News

Here is what we will be doing next week:

Reading: We will continue to do an author study over Kevin Henkes. This will include comparing and contrasting stories, self to text comparisons and AR quizzes. These will not count toward their AR goal, but rather as a reading grade.

Math: Chapter 4 will continue as we learn to identify fractions on a number line, compare fractions, and learn more about unit fractions as part of a whole. We will also continue to review multiplication and division facts daily.

Science: Next week, we will continue Unit 3 by learning about survival traits of organisms in environments that may not provide all needs.

Social Studies: The students will be working on an interactive notebook about Missouri government. This will include the three branches of government and the role that each plays in our own state.

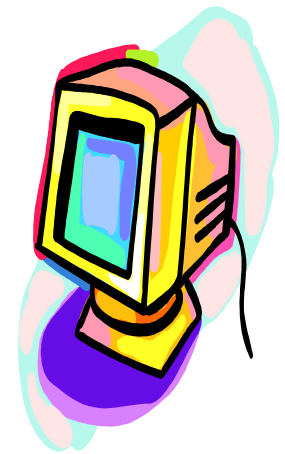

English: Our class is working to write friendly letters that we will be mailing to recipients toward the end of next week. Please help your child by writing the address of the person that they are writing to in their planner no later than next Wednesday so that we can send them all at the same time.

Important Dates to Remember

January 9: PTO meeting at 6:30.

January 15: No school-Martin Luther King, Jr. Day.

Book report points were handed out this week. Book reports will be due on January 31st. Students have been given their goal points for the month as well as a timeline book report. Notice that their points have changed slightly from the past months.

Word Wall Words and Patterns

there

they're

their

friendly

exciting

Pattern words: Unit 18 review patterns (blends, soft g and c, le on the last syllable, aw, o)

splash

strong

stretch

think

change

place

large

since

again

another

animal

around

simple

shuffle

jumble

circle

across

belong

draw

straw

