Reading – We will soon be starting assessments for the end of first quarter, your child should be close to mastering the following skills for reading and writing:

- Name the majority of the letters in the alphabet, upper and lowercase in random order
- Identify rhyming words
- Write first name correctly without resources

This week's theme will be fire safety and we will learn about text features of nonfiction.

Math – By the end of first quarter, your child should be close to mastering the following skills in math:

- Identify the numerals 0-10
- Write the numerals 0-10 without reversals
- Name shapes: circle, square, triangle, rectangle, and hexagon.
- Count by 1's and 10's to 100

This week we will review our numbers 0-10 and sequence them.

Grammar – This week we will continue to identify adjectives.

Handwriting – Our letters will be Q, G, S, and A. Remember to encourage the use of capital letters only at the beginning of sentences and names.

Science – We will learn about a variety of animal habitats.

If you ever have any questions, comments, or concerns, please feel free to contact me at school or email me at asvendsen@avenuecityschool.org.
Have a wonderful weekend!
